'Pure pleasures of the good life' writes Paul Jeeves in The Express, 2018. 'A cosy Welsh retreat ... makes learning to swim a pleasure' wrote Hattie Garlick in The Daily Telegraph, 2016.

Croft Farm and Celtic Cottages is our small, family-run farm in glorious West Wales countryside near the historic market town of Cardigan where the Pembrokeshire Coast National Park meets Cardigan Bay.

Our unchanged passion for 30 years has been to specialise in creating stress-free luxury cottage holidays for couples, families, three generation get togethers and small groups. As parents ourselves we understand that holidays with – or without – the children are about unwinding and rediscovering the joy of being together.

Andy, the owner, tour[ed] the farm with the children, feeding the goats, pigs, sheep, rabbits and guinea pigs ... the kids took in the football pitch, the mini adventure playground and the play barn, with air hockey and table tennis for teenagers and ... play vehicles, slides and a sandpit.' Hattie continued, 'The Dairy ... was spotlessly clean and warm [with] all the relevant equipment for children, ample space for muddy boots, and an open plan living space with a woodburning stove and deep, comfy chairs.'

Paul notes, 'An indoor swimming pool and spa alongside a well-equipped games room, outdoor play areas and a gym helped the whole family get into holiday mode. The children, even my too-cool-for-school 13-year-old, really didn't want to leave their new found friends (human and four-legged) behind'.

If you leave with a happy heart and wonderful memories we know we've done our job.
